FEATURES: Turning titans: Richard Hooper profiles the work of Anthony Bryant and Jim Partridge at their show in a prestigious London gallery. Choice seminar: Terry Porter and Mark Baker report on the recent AWGB (Association of Woodturners of Great Britain) seminar at Loughborough university. Spotlight on the del Mano: Iona Elliott profiles the del Mano Gallery in Los Angeles, which has played a major part in having woodturning recognised as an art form.

TECHNIQUES: Adding value: Terry Martin shows how you can use up valuable offcuts by turning them into jewellery (photo right). Smooth operator: Dave Register completes the scraper article he began last month, showing just how useful this much-maligned tool can be. Teutonic trees: Dave Register shows how to turn the Christmas trees he discovered on a recent visit to the Erzgebirge region of Germany.

TESTS: Rina-tool master: Two new innovative rina tools from Ashlev Iles are put through their paces by Terry Porter. In the frame: Mark Baker tries out a Turbo-Cut
